

Hidden 'Reform' Costs: the Health Cops

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Adam Brodsky

Source New York Post

Date August 10, 2009

URL http://www.nypost.com/seven/08102009/postopinion/opedcolumnists/hidden_reform_costs_the_health_cops_183774.htm?page=0

Quote

“If the goal is to make each of us pay the health costs linked to our own indulgences, there's a more efficient way to do it: Simply make everyone pay his own medical bills -- and scrap nationalized health care altogether. Lifestyle dictators will have none of that, of course. They'd rather end personal financial responsibility for health-care costs and then claim government has a right to mandate how we live -- since it pays the bills. Which is why a vote for government health care is a vote for government-run life.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Act should be passed on the topic Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Hidden_%27Reform%27_Costs:_the_Health_Cops&oldid=11326"

This page was last edited on March 11, 2010, at 14:34.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.