

A food bill, not a farm bill

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) The Boston Globe editorial board

Source The Boston Globe

Date November 7, 2007

URL http://www.boston.com/news/globe/editorial_opinion/editorials/articles/2007/11/07/a_food_bill_not_a_farm_bill/

Quote

“ Indiana's Richard Lugar and New Jersey's Frank Lautenberg want to stop the costly practice of subsidizing wheat, corn, soy, cotton, and rice crops even when prices are high, as they are now. Their bill, to be offered in the Senate this week, would switch to a government system of revenue insurance, premium-free for both ranchers and farmers, including vegetable and fruit growers who now get little benefit from the farm bill.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Bill should be passed on the topic 2007 U.S. Farm Bill.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=A_food_bill,_not_a_farm_bill&oldid=7074"

This page was last edited on December 20, 2007, at 11:51.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.