

Barack Obama: Why I believe he should be the next President

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Boris Johnson

Source The Daily Telegraph

Date 2008-10-21

URL <http://www.telegraph.co.uk/opinion/main.jhtml?xml=/opinion/2008/10/21/do2101.xml>

Quote

“ If Obama wins, then it will be simply fatuous to claim that there are no black role models in politics or government, because there is no higher role model than the President of the United States. If Barack Hussein Obama is successful next month, then we could even see the beginning of the end of race-based politics, with all the grievance-culture and special interest groups and political correctness that come with it.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position Obama should be elected on the topic United States presidential election, 2008.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Barack_Obama:_Why_I_believe_he_should_be_the_next_President&ol did=8220"

This page was last edited on October 23, 2008, at 16:03.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.