

DPRK nuclear danger

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Anand Kumar

Source The Washington Times

Date October 13, 2006

URL <http://www3.washingtontimes.com/op-ed/20061012-092912-2468r.htm>

Quote

“ Sometimes sanctions actually strengthen the regime against which they are imposed, as their impact is felt directly by the people and leaves rulers untouched. The adversity faced by the people forces them to rally around the regime which the sanctions are supposed to weaken. Even where the sanctions are successful they take a long time to work.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item takes a mixed stance on the position Economic sanctions should be placed on North Korea on the topic North Korean nuclear crisis.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=DPRK_nuclear_danger&oldid=6283"

This page was last edited on July 16, 2007, at 16:35.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.