

Daring to Complain About Obamacare

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Lori Gottlieb

Source The New York Times

Date November 10, 2013

URL <http://www.nytimes.com/2013/11/11/opinion/daring-to-complain-about-obamacare.html>

Quote

“ And the “over all” might agree. But the self-employed middle class is being sacrificed at the altar of politically correct rhetoric, with nobody helping to ensure our health, fiscal or otherwise, because it’s trendy to cheer for the underdog. Embracing the noble cause is all very well — as long as yours isn’t the “fortunate” family that loses its access to comprehensive, affordable health care while the rest of the nation gets it. ”

The following other items refer to this item: No One Died at Healthcare.gov: The Phony Crisis of Obamacare, Obamacare vs. the Dutiful

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position Act should not have been passed on the topic Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Daring_to_Complain_About_Obamacare&oldid=16986"

This page was last edited on November 11, 2013, at 14:48.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.