

How should this country treat its terror suspects?

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Mark Davis

Source The Dallas Morning News

Date September 20, 2006

URL http://www.dallasnews.com/sharedcontent/dws/dn/opinion/columnists/all/stories/DN-davis_20edi.ART.State.Edition1.3e2f11e.html

Quote “ We are not engaged in battle with any particular nation that might claim signatory status to the Geneva Conventions. We are not fighting any uniformed entity that remotely aspires to the pleasantries enumerated within. As such, it is tragically inane to hear United States senators whine about our obligations to afford terrorist combatants certain dignities out of fear of what enemy captors might do to us.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position Act should be passed on the topic Military Commissions Act of 2006.

This item argues against the position Competing Graham-McCain-Warner bill should be passed on the topic Military Commissions Act of 2006.

This item argues for the position Amendment should not have been passed on the topic McCain Detainee Amendment.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=How_should_this_country_treat_its_terror_suspects%3F&oldid=3470"

This page was last edited on September 29, 2006, at 15:38.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.