

Israel's Actions Were Entirely Lawful Though Probably Unwise

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Alan Dershowitz

Source The Huffington Post

Date June 1, 2010

URL http://www.huffingtonpost.com/alan-dershowitz/israels-actions-were-enti_b_596285.html

Quote

“ Again, law and practice are clear. If there is no doubt that the offending ships have made a firm determination to break the blockade, then the blockade may be enforced before the offending ships cross the line into domestic waters. Again the United States and other western countries have frequently boarded ships at high sea in order to assure their security.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position Israel was justified in its actions on the topic Gaza flotilla raid.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Israel%27s_Actions_Were_Entirely_Lawful_Though_Probably_Unwise&oldid=12087"

This page was last edited on June 3, 2010, at 15:16.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.