

Israel has plenty of tactics for war, but none for peace

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Jonathan Freedland

Source The Guardian

Date January 3, 2009

URL <http://www.guardian.co.uk/commentisfree/2009/jan/03/israel-attack-hamas-gaza-peace>

Quote

“ "Second, if Israel hoped to break Hamas' hold on Gaza it has gone precisely the wrong way about it. Its leaders have done this many times before, repeatedly misreading the way Arab societies work. They believe that if they hit Gaza (or Lebanon) hard enough, the local population will blame Hamas (or Hezbollah) for bringing tragedy upon them. But it doesn't work like that. Instead, Gazans blame Israel - and close ranks with Hamas." ”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Israel was right to attack Gaza on the topic Gaza War.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Israel_has_plenty_of_tactics_for_war,_but_none_for_peace&oldid=9873"

This page was last edited on July 14, 2009, at 13:43.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.