It's inexcusable for Congress not to fund troops in Iraq

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s)	John McCain, Joe Lieberman
Source	New Hampshire Union Leader
Date	December 4, 2007
URL	http://www.unionleader.com/article.aspx?articleId=b4707463-23e6-4961-880a-a74d52f89031
Quote	"There is no question Iraq's national leaders must do more to promote reconciliation and improve governance in the months ahead. But the fact is, there has been enormous political progress in Iraq at the local and provincial levels thanks to the surge, as Sunni and Shiite leaders have stepped forward to fight against the extremists in their communities. Building on these gains is going to require deft diplomacy and subtle statecraft from the United States not declarations of defeat."

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Coalition troops should pull out on the topic Postinvasion Iraq.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=It%27s_inexcusable_for_Congress_not_to_fund_troops_in_Iraq&oldid =7207"

This page was last edited on February 3, 2008, at 20:31.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.