

Letter to America

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Akbar Ganji

Source The Washington Post

Date September 21, 2006

URL <http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/09/20/AR2006092001583.html>

Quote

“ It is both possible and desirable to solve the problems between the United States and Iran through direct talks. Such diplomacy will best serve the interests of the American and Iranian people if it is conducted in a transparent fashion. This transparency would not only make it impossible for advocates of war to increase tensions but also would help isolate them.”

”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Economic sanctions should be imposed on Iran on the topic Iranian nuclear crisis.

This item argues against the position United States should attack Iran on the topic Iranian nuclear crisis.

This item argues for the position United States should negotiate with Iran on the topic Iranian nuclear crisis.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Letter_to_America&oldid=3247"

This page was last edited on September 21, 2006, at 17:35.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.