

Lieberman

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Martin Peretz

Source The Wall Street Journal

Date August 7, 2006

URL <http://www.opinionjournal.com/editorial/feature.html?id=110008760>

Quote

“Mr. Lamont's view is that there are very few antagonists whom we cannot mollify or conciliate. Let's call this process by its correct name: appeasement. The Greenwich entrepreneur might call it "incentivization." Mr. Lieberman's view is that there are actually enemies who, intoxicated by millennial delusions, are not open to rational and reciprocal arbitration.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position Lieberman should be elected on the topic Connecticut United States Senate election, 2006.

This item argues against the position Lamont should be elected on the topic Connecticut United States Senate election, 2006.

Retrieved from "<https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Lieberman&oldid=3550>"

This page was last edited on October 5, 2006, at 00:35.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.