

Maryland United States Senate election, 2006 / Steele should be elected

< Maryland United States Senate election, 2006

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

Position: Steele should be elected

This position addresses the topic Maryland United States Senate election, 2006.

For this position

No results

Against this position

“ One candidate in Maryland's U.S. Senate race, Rep. Benjamin L. Cardin , would be a natural leader in the Senate by dint of his command of issues, proven integrity, formidable intellect and unstinting work ethic. The other candidate, Lt. Gov. Michael S. Steele, deploys platitudes and gauzy rhetoric to disguise a tissue-thin grasp of policy.” ”

From Maryland's Senate Race, by The Washington Post editorial board (The Washington Post, October 20, 2006) (view)

“ Despite his efforts to construct an image as an independent-minded newcomer, there is nothing in Mr. Steele's past -- no achievement, no record, no evidence and certainly no command of the issues -- to support it.” ”

From Mr. Steele's Politics as Usual, by The Washington Post editorial board (The Washington Post, November 4, 2006) (view)

Mixed on this position

No results

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Maryland_United_States_Senate_election,_2006/_Steele_should_be_ elected&oldid=3758"

This page was last edited on October 20, 2006, at 15:03.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.