

Net neutrality sounds nice, but we'd be better off without it

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Jon Gabriel

Source The Arizona Republic

Date December 1, 2017

URL <https://www.azcentral.com/story/opinion/op-ed/2017/12/01/net-neutrality-sounds-nice-but-better-off-without/905516001/>

Quote “ Bizarrely, these net neutrality alarmists are demanding that Trump maintain control of the internet, planting his administration firmly between citizens and whatever content they want to view or create. Even if Democrats were running the show in D.C., how could federal meddling improve the internet? Do they want the web run by the bureaucrats who spent $2 billion to build a health-care website that didn't work? Do they want our privacy assured by those behind the NSA? ”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position Net neutrality should be repealed on the topic Net neutrality in the United States.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Net_neutrality_sounds_nice,_but_we%27d_be_better_off_without_it&oldid=29482"

This page was last edited on December 27, 2017, at 05:37.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.