

Not too Late to Curb Dear Leader

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Dan Blumenthal, Aaron Friedberg

Source The Weekly Standard

Date February 5, 2007

URL <http://weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/013/246vdcgk.asp>

Quote

“First, instead of backing off, the president should authorize the imposition of further financial sanctions on the North. He should also quietly tell Beijing that, unless it is willing to clean its own house, the U.S. government will follow the money trail of North Korea's counterfeiting and smuggling wherever it leads, even if this means going after banks, front companies, and individuals in China.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position China should pressure North Korea to give up its nuclear ambitions on the topic North Korean nuclear crisis.

This item argues for the position Economic sanctions should be placed on North Korea on the topic North Korean nuclear crisis.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Not_too_Late_to_Curb_Dear_Leader&oldid=9279"

This page was last edited on March 30, 2009, at 12:24.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.