

Nukes and More Nukes

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) The Washington Post editorial board

Source The Washington Post

Date October 15, 2006

URL <http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/10/14/AR2006101400791.html>

Quote

“ "The five countries that have tried to bargain with North Korea over its nuclear program -- China, South Korea, Russia, Japan and the United States -- could have stopped the North Korean program and could reverse it still: Among them they have the capacity to force the collapse of the Kim Jong Il dictatorship. A similar coalition probably could stop Iran. But to do so, nuclear counterproliferation has to become those governments' highest priority." ”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position China should pressure North Korea to give up its nuclear ambitions on the topic North Korean nuclear crisis.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Nukes_and_More_Nukes&oldid=3721"

This page was last edited on October 16, 2006, at 16:01.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.