Quote

“ A study published late last week in the prestigious journal Science found that Medicaid actually increases emergency room use — by a substantial margin. Comparing Medicaid patients to the uninsured in Oregon, the researchers found that those on Medicaid used emergency room visits 40% more often than the uninsured. This was true, they discovered, "across a broad range of types of visits, conditions," including visits to a primary care doctor. Meanwhile, an earlier study, published in the New England Journal of Medicine, found that people on Medicaid were no healthier than those who were uninsured.
