

One last push and that's you finished in Iraq, Mr President

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Simon Jenkins

Source The Times

Date January 7, 2007

URL http://www.timesonline.co.uk/tol/comment/columnists/simon_jenkins/article1290209.ece

Quote

“ The idea that such a hellhole can be policed back to normality with an extra 20,000 US troops is absurd. Such a force (which means barely 7,000 on patrol at any one time) would simply disappear into the dust. The insurgency is anyway now entangled with the conflict between Shi'ite and Sunni, claiming hundreds of lives each week and fought by paramilitaries mostly armed by America in a shambles of unaudited theft and fraud.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position United States should increase troop levels on the topic Post-invasion Iraq.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=One_last_push_and_that's_you_finished_in_Iraq,_Mr_President&oldid=5119"

This page was last edited on March 25, 2007, at 21:17.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.