

Pass the Bill

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Paul Krugman

Source The New York Times

Date December 17, 2009

URL <http://www.nytimes.com/2009/12/18/opinion/18krugman.html>

Quote

“ "At its core, the bill would do two things. First, it would prohibit discrimination by insurance companies on the basis of medical condition or history: Americans could no longer be denied health insurance because of a pre-existing condition, or have their insurance canceled when they get sick. Second, the bill would provide substantial financial aid to those who don't get insurance through their employers, as well as tax breaks for small employers that do provide insurance. All of this would be paid for in large part with the first serious effort ever to rein in rising health care costs."

”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position Act should be passed on the topic Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Pass_the_Bill&oldid=11364"

This page was last edited on March 11, 2010, at 14:39.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.