

Scrapping 'net neutrality' is a threat to the free flow of information

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Toronto Star editorial board

Source Toronto Star

Date December 14, 2017

URL <https://www.thestar.com/opinion/editorials/2017/12/14/scrapping-net-neutrality-is-a-threat-to-the-free-flow-of-information.html>

Quote “ [ISPs] could even choke off free speech for political reasons. That’s what already happens in countries like China, where the government makes sure citizens can easily access approved sites while making it painfully slow or even impossible to get information from sites deemed unreliable or hostile. ”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Net neutrality should be repealed on the topic Net neutrality in the United States.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Scrapping_'net_neutrality'_is_a_threat_to_the_free_flow_of_information&oldid=29469"

This page was last edited on December 25, 2017, at 16:32.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.