

Stupidity breeds contempt

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Michael Goodwin

Source New York Daily News

Date September 30, 2008

URL http://www.nydailynews.com/opinions/2008/09/30/2008-09-30_stupidity_breeds_contempt.html

Quote “The vast majority of Americans have lost confidence in their government and their institutions, and they simply don't trust anybody in authority to do anything right or honest. The vacuum of leadership can't be filled by warnings that everything will get worse unless you say "aye" and open your wallets again. Our leaders have cried wolf too often. Even when the wolf is really there, as it is now, nobody believes or trusts them.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position United States should bail out the banking industry on the topic Economic crisis of 2008.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Stupidity_breeds_contempt&oldid=8143"

This page was last edited on October 1, 2008, at 13:42.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.