The Iraqi Upturn

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) The Washington Post editorial board

Source The Washington Post

Date June 1, 2008

URL http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2008/05/31/AR2008053101927.html

Quote

"If the positive trends continue, proponents of withdrawing most U.S. troops, such as Mr. Obama, might be able to responsibly carry out further pullouts next year. Still, the likely Democratic nominee needs a plan for Iraq based on sustaining an improving situation, rather than abandoning a failed enterprise. That will mean tying withdrawals to the evolution of the Iraqi army and government, rather than an arbitrary timetable; Iraq's 2009 elections will be crucial."

"

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item takes a mixed stance on the position Coalition troops should pull out on the topic Post-invasion Iraq.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=The Iraqi Upturn&oldid=7640"

This page was last edited on June 1, 2008, at 13:36.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.