

The inhumane folly of our interventionist machismo

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Simon Jenkins

Source The Guardian

Date September 20, 2006

URL <http://www.guardian.co.uk/commentisfree/story/0,,1876420,00.html>

Quote

“ They ask, what would I do about the janjaweed, and what about the 1.9 million refugees? My answer to the first is identical in substance to theirs: nothing really. They just get the T-shirt. The janjaweed are not in my country, not my business and, most important, not a problem within my power to solve.”

”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position United Nations should send peacekeepers on the topic Darfur conflict.

This item refers to the previous opinion item Sorry George Clooney, but the last thing Darfur needs is western troops.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=The_inhumane_folly_of_our_interventionist_machismo&oldid=3207"

This page was last edited on September 20, 2006, at 19:06.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.