The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s)	The Philadelphia Inquirer editorial board
Source	The Philadelphia Inquirer
Date	May 24, 2007
URL	http://www.philly.com/philly/opinion/7661616.html
Quote	66 "There are at least 12 million undocumented immigrants in this country. Most simply walked or motored across our closest neighbors' borders. But many traveled clandestinely from Europe or Asia. They are not going back home on their own, and no matter what blathering demagogues say on talk shows, this nation has neither the will nor the wallet to round them all up and force them to go home. It's just more logical to allow the productive and law-abiding among them some path to legal status or citizenship. The new bill does that."	,,

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position Act should be passed on the topic Comprehensive Immigration Reform Act of 2007.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=They%27re_not_going_away&oldid=5874"

This page was last edited on June 7, 2007, at 16:37.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.