

Time to Go

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) National Review editorial board

Source National Review

Date March 28, 2007

URL <http://article.nationalreview.com/?q=NTNjY2U3Yjk0NTRmNTcyNjg1M2EwM2FINTA0OTYyMzU=>

Quote

“ His claim not to have been involved in the firings suggests that he was either deceptive or inexcusably detached from the operations of his own department. His deputy, Paul McNulty, insulted the fired prosecutors by claiming that they had been asked to resign for “performance-related issues.” But many of them received good reviews, and none of them said he was told about any disappointment with his performance.”

”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues for the position Alberto Gonzales should resign on the topic 2006 Dismissal of U.S. Attorneys controversy.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Time_to_Go&oldid=5161"

This page was last edited on March 28, 2007, at 22:38.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.