

Time to confront reality

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Steve Chapman

Source Chicago Tribune

Date June 3, 2007

URL <http://www.chicagotribune.com/news/columnists/chi-070603chapman-column,1,2819532.column?ctrack=1&cset=true>

Quote

“ Believing that immigration enforcement can wall us off from people who are prepared to endure huge sacrifices to come here is more in the realm of dreams. Any benefit a new law can achieve is bound to be modest and incremental, discouraging some illegal immigrants from coming, diverting others into legal channels and having no effect on others. Our leaders are better off trying for small improvements than insisting on grand solutions.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Act should be passed on the topic Comprehensive Immigration Reform Act of 2007.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Time_to_confront_reality&oldid=5881"

This page was last edited on June 7, 2007, at 17:18.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.