

Trash Talking World War III

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) The New York Times editorial board

Source The New York Times

Date October 29, 2007

URL <http://www.nytimes.com/2007/10/29/opinion/29mon1.html>

Quote

“ Large numbers of Iranians are fed up with their government's corruption and repression and with being branded a pariah state. Rain down American bombs, however, and the mullahs and Iran's Holocaust-denying president, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, are more likely to be turned into national heroes than hung from lampposts. And that's not even calculating the international fury or the additional mayhem Tehran could wreak in Iraq or what would happen to world oil prices.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position United States should attack Iran on the topic Iranian nuclear crisis.

This item argues for the position United States should negotiate with Iran on the topic Iranian nuclear crisis.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Trash_Talking_World_War_III&oldid=6699"

This page was last edited on October 29, 2007, at 12:41.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.