

When It Comes to Iran, the Obama Administration's Willful Blindness Is Astounding

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Matthew Continetti

Source National Review

Date July 18, 2015

URL <http://www.nationalreview.com/article/421344/iran-nuclear-deal-dangerous-game>

Quote

“ Media and cultural institutions will reward Obama and Kerry and Rouhani and Zarif for upholding the shibboleths that rule the world: give peace a chance, jaw jaw is better than war war, we're all in this together, put yourself in the mullah's shoes, Kennedy and Reagan negotiated with a superpower so why can't we parody their example by kowtowing to a two-bit fundamentalist regime on the verge of bankruptcy whose shrinking population is addled by drugs and venereal disease. Meanwhile Iranian centrifuges will spin, Iran's proxies are sowing chaos, its missile program is active, its adversarial posture toward Israel and America and the West is unbroken, and, as Jim Webb put it, "After a period of ten years they are going to be able to say that they can move forward with a nuclear weapons policy with our acceptance.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Plan is beneficial on the topic Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action.

Retrieved from

"https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=When_It_Comes_to_Iran,_the_Obama_Administration's_Willful_Blindness_Is_Astounding&oldid=28098"

This page was last edited on July 24, 2015, at 17:48.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.