

Winning One Battle, Fighting the Next

The printable version is no longer supported and may have rendering errors. Please update your browser bookmarks and please use the default browser print function instead.

This is an opinion item.

Author(s) Frederick W. Kagan

Source The Weekly Standard

Date October 27, 2007

URL <http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/014/279rizcg.asp>

Quote

“ How much more powerful a tool would have been the actual defeat of the United States, the last remaining superpower, at the hands of Al Qaeda In Iraq? How much more dangerous would have been a terrorist movement with bases in an oil-rich Arab country at the heart of al Qaeda's mythical "Caliphate" than al Qaeda was when based in barren, poverty-stricken Afghanistan, a country where Arabs are seen as untrustworthy outsiders? Instead, Al Qaeda In Iraq today is broken.”

Add or change this opinion item's references

This item argues against the position Coalition troops should pull out on the topic Post-invasion Iraq.

Retrieved from "https://discoursedb.org/w/index.php?title=Winning_One_Battle,_Fighting_the_Next&oldid=6695"

This page was last edited on October 28, 2007, at 17:25.

All text is available under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License.